Watching the Show

There are two ways that one can watch the show: from the beach or from a boat. Some have asked me if the show can be seen from other surrounding beaches, and the answer is probably yes. However, you will be nowhere near airshow center (where all the action takes place and the acts are centered around) and you will not hear Mr. Reider's commentary. So for the best viewing experience, stay with Jones Beach itself.

For those with boats, the show can be viewed from Zach's Bay or from the ocean. However, there are restrictions as to where in the ocean the show can be watched. I was able to find these parameters for the 2005 show, and I can only assume that they will be the same for this year. And if they aren't exactly the same, the worst that can happen is the Coast Guard will yell at you and tell you to move. No biggie.

Bethpage Air Show at Jones Beach State Park to Fly Memorial Day - Popular tradition to go on following unprecedented weekend rainout

All passes for Saturday and Sunday performances will be honored

New York State Office of Parks Recreation and Historic Preservation today announced the Bethpage Air Show at Jones Beach State Park will be held on Memorial Day, Monday, May 31 after heavy rain forced cancellation of the weekend performance. This year will be the first time the performance was held on Memorial Day since being launched at Jones Beach State Park in 2004. Committed performers include the United States Air Force Thunderbirds, the United States Air Force A-10 Thunderbolt (Warthog), Golden Knights, GEICO Skytypers, Mike Goulian, David Windmiller and others. The show will take place 12 to 3 p.m.

All tickets for either Saturday or Sunday's show, including all passes issued to Long Island's health care heroes, will be honored.

"I'm tremendously grateful for all the partners, performers and staff who are pulling together to make Monday's show happen," said State Parks Commissioner Erik Kulleseid. "We're excited for the traditional summer season at Jones Beach, starting with the Bethpage Air Show."

SATURDAY CANCELLED, SUNDAY also cancelled as per news 12

Air Show also Cancelled Sunday May 30 Due to Inclement WeatherThe New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation regrestfully announces that the Sunday, May 30 performance of the Bethpage Air Show at Jones Beach State Park has been cancelled due to inclement weather. The decision is necessary to ensure the safety of the performers and the spectators.

Ticket holders for Sunday's performance are eligible to receive two free day park passes. Ticket holders may redeem their Air Show Park Special Event Pass with the QR code at any State Park office and they will receive two free day parking passes valid for entry to any New York State Park.

Fans who wish to receive a refund should email their confirmation numbers with the email address they used to purchase their tickets to jonesbeach.airshow@parks.ny.gov

For those individuals who purchased an Air Show Parking Pass and also possess an Empire Pass, if they would like a credit will be given to them when they purchase next year's 2022 Empire Passport. This $10 discount will be available for the lowest price available at the time of purchase.
