

Lynyrd Skynyrd and Peter Frampton have announced the first dozen dates of a co-headlining summer tour with a stop at Jones Beach on June 5, the latest in a string of joint treks together that dates back to the Seventies. The rock giants' summer tour kicks off June 3rd at Albany, New York's Times Union Center on its way westward before coming to a close, as of now,

August 21st in Murphys, California. So far, Frampton and Skynyrd have announced 12 joint shows together, with more dates promised. TICKETS

In addition to their joint tour, both artists have sprinkled their own dates into the itinerary: Frampton has planned a Skynyrd-less gig at Gregg Allman's Laid Back Festival in Chicago on July 16th while Lynyrd Skynyrd will perform at Los Angeles' Greek Theatre sans-Frampton on August 18th. Check out both the Frampton and Lynyrd Skynyrd tour pages for complete dates and on-sale information.

In December 2015, Lynyrd Skynyrd canceled the remaining dates of their U.S. tour as founding member Gary Rossington recuperated from heart surgery.