

the Backstreet Boys are coming Back, again, and will head out on tour this summer kicking off their first stop at Jones Beach on Sat, July 16, 2022 - tix: http://BACKSTREETBOYS.jonesbeach.com

This set of dates follows the first North American leg of the band's ongoing DNA World Tour, which took place last summer. The tour, in support of their recent No. 1 album DNA, has visited five continents and picks back up later this month when the group heads to Mexico, South America, Australia and New Zealand.

“We give our fans 100%, night after night, putting on the best Backstreet Boys show we can,” band member AJ McLean said in a statement. “We play our hits, we dance our asses off and we do it because we love our fans. We have the best fans in the world. They come out to party and they sing at the top of their lungs and we feed off that energy. We can’t wait to take this show on the road again this summer.”

Announcing the tour, the band tweeted: "North America you knew we'd be coming back again. We're so excited to bring the #DNAWorldTour to even more of you guys!! Tickets are on sale this Friday & fan club pre-sale starts tomorrow!" Brian Littrel, Nick Carter, AJ McLean, Kevin Richardson, and Howie Dorough of Backstreet Boys perform on stage at the 2019 iHeartRadio Music Awards which broadcasted live on FOX at the Microsoft Theater on March 14, 2019 in Los Angeles.. The Backstreet Boys are coming back, again. The OG boy band announced a second North American leg of their DNA World Tour on Monday (Feb. 10), slated to kick off on July 10 with a show at Jones Beach Theater in Wantagh, New York. The 45-date, three-month tour produced by Live Nation will bring the group to arenas and amphitheaters across the U.S. and Canada through an Oct. 9 gig at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles.