Dave Matthews Band is continuing their partnership with the Nature Conservancy and aim to plant an additional million trees in 2022 on top of the two million they've already planted. The septet have long been outspoken about climate change and have been reducing their carbon footprint from touring to carbon-neutral levels since their first events in '91.. Since its very first concert in 1991, Dave Matthews Band has been dedicated to neutralizing tour carbon. Since then, the band has sold more than 25 million tickets, and a collective 38 million CDs and DVDs combined.

With the release of 2018's Come Tomorrow, Dave Matthews Band became the first group in history to have 7-consecutive studio albums debut at No. 1 on the Billboard 200.. If you're hoping to catch Dave Matthews and his signature roots rock mixed with a bit of a jazz, folk and funk live, here's everything you need to know: <http://DMB.jonesbeach.com>

On Friday evenings during the "2022 North American Tour," fans can tune in to DMB Radio's "Friday Night Concert Series on the band's dedicated SiriusXM channel (Ch.30) for weekly live broadcasts from across the country..

They've been touring the U.S. during most of the second half of 2021, visiting many of the places that are also on the "2022 North American Tour" itinerary. Dave Matthews Band finished eighth on Pollstar's Year End Top 200 Worldwide Tours, with 583,399 ticket sold for a total gross of $46 million.. Most of last year's dates were sold out, including the final two nights at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 12-13, which sold a combined 30,981 tickets for a gross of $3,413,313, according to Pollstar box office data.

Over the past two years, Dave Matthews Band has planted over 2 million trees through its partnership with the Nature Conservancy. The band has committed to helping plant an additional one million trees in 2022. Concertgoers can join in this mission by adding an optional donation of $2 per ticket to plant a tree with The Nature Conservancy's Plant a Billion Trees campaign – a major forest restoration effort with the goal of planting a billion trees around the world. The Dreaming Tree Wines, DocuSign and other tour partners have lent their support. For additional details, visit www.dmbtrees.org. Along with the tree campaign, Dave Matthews Band will once again join forces with REVERB to neutralize carbon emissions associated with both band and fan travel, resulting in a Climate Positive tour. Dave Matthews Band has a long history of reducing their environmental footprint, and neutralizing tour carbon going back to their first shows in 1991. Tour greening efforts and the band's annual eco-village are in partnership with DocuSign.
